A genderless language is a natural or constructed language that has no distinctions of grammatical gender—that is, no categories requiring morphological agreement between nouns and associated pronouns, adjectives, articles, or verbs.. The notion of a genderless language is distinct from that of gender neutrality or gender-neutral language, which is wording that does not presuppose a ...

Gender neutrality in genderless languages - Wikipedia

Over the past few decades, society at large has rapidly altered its language and customs in order to try and erase any distinctions between men and women. Although evangelical publishers resisted these trends for many years, their recent attempts to produce gender-neutral English translations of the Bible show just how powerful the pressure is to conform Scripture to prevailing cultural norms.
